

Second announcement and call for papers

Dear colleagues,

The next European conference on NDT is getting closer and we now open the call for papers for the ECNDT 2018 in Gothenburg, Sweden. A broad technical program is prepared and we look forward to the review of abstracts in the coming period. I welcome the institutions and the industry in Europe and around the world to register their new result of research and development as well as technical results in different projects within the area of Non-destructive Testing. The registration of abstracts is open from March 3, 2017 and will be open until July 1, 2017. More information of the process is presented at our website, www.ecndt2018.com.

The preparation of the conference is in progress and we thank our sponsors that already signed as partner of the conference. I also thank our team doing a great work with the planning and organization of the conference. I look forward to meet you in Gothenburg in June 2018 for interesting presentations, meetings and discussion.

Please feel free to distribute this information about the open call for papers to your NDT network.

See you in Gothenburg!

Best Regards,

Peter Merck

President of the ECNDT 2018
